PRESS RELEASE | Jens Staubrand Brings Søren Kierkegaard's Classic: The Seducer's Diary to Life as a Play

Stauer Publishing and playwright Jens Staubrand present a unique theatrical experience: The Seducer's Diary.

Jens Staubrand's play The Seducer's Diary represents a bold and artistic reinterpretation of Søren Kierkegaard's original work of the same name, one of the most fascinating and complex writings in Western literature. It is known for its intimate and almost terrifying exploration of the human psyche, especially in relation to love and manipulation.

The play is based on Søren Kierkegaard's iconic work of the same name and brings its profound psychological and philosophical themes to life on stage.

Jens Staubrand, known for his work in uniting philosophy, literature and art, has managed to transform Søren Kierkegaard's complex exploration of seduction, love and existence into a living theatrical performance.

With respect for the essence and depth of the original text, Jens Staubrand manages to portray Johannes' strategic play with the young Cordelia in a way that both challenges and fascinates the audience.

With his keen sense of drama and detail, Jens Staubrand brings Søren Kierkegaard's characters to life and highlights timeless themes that speak directly to the modern spectator.

This play is an invitation to rediscover and reflect on human nature and moral dilemmas in light of the great philosophical heritage.
